Some Tires Available At CD Info

The Civilian Defense Information Bureau, where you ask questions, volunteer your services and apply for new tires is now open daily, including Saturday, from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m.

CD Information is to be found on Dolores street just north of Western Union.

Paul Whitman, chief warden, announces that it is simply a waste of time for the ordinary, lay citizen to apply for new tires. Tires and tubes are available only to persons on a priorities list which follows. So if the vehicle for which you wish hoofs does not come under any of these classifications please, says Mr. Whitman, stay away.

The tire rationing board for Carmel is made up of Commander Martin J. Peterson, Mrs. Perry Newberry and Kentucky Colonel W. E. Pulliam.

Certificates for tires or tubes are to be issued at the CD Information Bureau ONLY:

a. On a vehicle which is operated by a physician, surgeon, visiting nurse, or a veterinarian, and which is used principally for professional services.

b. On an ambulance.

c. On a vehicle used exclusively for one or more of the following purposes:

2. Transportation of students and teachers to and from school;

3. Transportation of employees to or from any industry or mining establishment or construction project, except when public transportation facilities are readily available.

City Will Collect Dog Licenses

Thomas Hefling, Jr., city tax collector, was authorized by the Council, Wednesday night, to collect dog licenses for Carmel.

Heretofore all dog licenses had been collected for the benefit of the S. P. C. A. Shelter. Now all moneys will go to the City.

Charges for local dog licenses are: $2 yearly for male dogs; $4 for female; $2 for female dogs that have been spayed.

NEW MEANING OF "SHANGHAIED" BEING LEARNED BY U. S. CONSUL

Mrs. A. Bland Calder, of Carmel, wife of the American consul at Shanghai, has at last, after a month of war, had word of her husband.

The news comes in a mimeographed government form telling her that her husband is confined to his consular compound and is restricted to bank withdrawals of $80 a month but otherwise, is quite well.

BUMPER BABY CROP—

Three hundred and seventy-four babies were born in the Peninsula Community Hospital last year, which is over a hundred more than were ever born there in one year before.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS COMMISSION ELIMINATED

The Council on Wednesday evening decided to abolish the practically defunct Park and Playgrounds Commission, and accordingly gave instructions to City Attorney William L. Hudson to prepare an ordinance to terminate the Commission's appointment.

This Commission was established a number of years ago, when the City had ambitious plans of providing parks and playgrounds, with tennis courts and possibly a swimming pool, with an entertainment program at Forest Theater that would keep that section of Carmel constantly open to the public.

But sufficient funds for these improvements were never raised, and, now that all available funds are needed for Carmel's war effort, there is really no further use for the Commission.

Forest Theater, formerly under partial jurisdiction of the Commission (the Street Department was always responsible for its maintenance) will now be handled entirely by the Street Department.

A small insurance cost will be saved by the elimination of the Commission, since the State Compensation Insurance Fund charged a premium against its five members of $9.70 a year.

Members of the Commission were: Corum Jackson, chairman; Grace Livingston Flanders, secretary; Gertrude E. Rendtorff, George M. Whitcomb, and Lloyd C. Weer.

Carmel's 1941 Building Totals Half Million

Over half a million dollars worth of building went up in Carmel in 1941, setting an all-time record.

There were 203 permits issued and while 218 were taken out in 1940, another record was sent in 1941 when in May 26 permits were issued in a single month.

Total value of 1941 building here amounts to $573,542.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams also reveals in his annual report that building, gas and electrical inspection during the past year was not only self-supporting but netted the city a 20 per cent profit.

Mrs. Bassett Writes of Carmel Charms

Carmelites who are worried over the village having received unfavorable publicity for being too near the so-called Pacific ocean, might calm their fears by glancing at last Sunday's New York Times.

In it Dorothea Castelhun Bassett has written a column-long article on the still quaint and unspoiled charms of Carmel. And with it appears the photograph of a typical Carmel home, Glad Gate. Dorothea Bassett writes of our daily trips to the post office,

Civilian Defense Needs Equipment

The Civilian Defense is in urgent need of supplies to furnish three busy offices. If you have any of the articles on the following list that you could give or lend to the more than worthy cause, the Civilian Defense would greatly appreciate having them. Needed are: chairs, desks, pencil sharpeners, waste baskets, filing equipment, blank cards, index guides, filing boxes, scratch pads, pens, staplers, ink wells, wire or wooden file baskets, bulletin boards, electric heaters and typewriters.

Carmel's A. W. V. S. (American Women's Voluntary Services) plans to join the waste paper drive now being carried on by the Boy Scouts, so another request is made of Carmel housewives; save all magazines and newspapers.

Three Carmel Youths Enlist in U. S. Navy

Keeping up her average of almost three recruits a week, Carmel had today sent off three more of her boys to the United States Navy.

Latest to enlist are Logan C. Vandervort, George H. Myette and Dean Wolter of Carmel Valley.

THE DOGS DO BARK

A handsome young gentleman from New Jersey is giving the feminine hearts in the vicinity of Lincoln and 12th a whirl. He is TROUSERS Hogg, who is here with his mistress, Miss Kitty Hogg, and Miss Louise Callaghan, visiting his mistress's brother, Lieut. James Hogg. TROUSERS had never met his Uncle James and when he first saw him he was so impressed with his uniform that he sat up and shook paws with him with as much dignity and deference as if he had been a general.

TROUSERS, who is a city dweller by birth, is delighted with Carmel and village life, but he is a real "tenderfoot" at heart and is at this moment in a local canine hospital undergoing treatment for two pair of worn-out feet, the result of too much trotting about on our rocky paths.

There is one redhead in town beautiful enough to make a movie actor turn and start at her — and Garbo's leading man at that! The redhead is TRINA Cosky, lovely young protege of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cosky, and the movie actor is Melvin Douglas.

TRINA comes from a very handsome family, just take a peep at her brother, MICHAEL Baker, if you are in any doubt about it. However, she is as charming as she is beautiful, and is known for her pleasant manners and friendly smile. (In fact Pepsodent has been trying to get her to pose for an ad.) And just to prove she is a real glamor girl, TRINA loves sausages and that big, black, roust-about-town, N I G. (You very well know that every true G. G. HAS to love liver or sausages or some such plebian food and some large, athletic and rather unpolished gentleman). And as though this were not enough, TRINA is domestic, too, and likes to help around the house or whip up a salad or such now and then.

No wonder the boys who know TRINA (and some who don't) always say, "What a gal!" whenever they see her.

MUGGINS Pinckard is once again in the Social Swim and in the good graces of her master and mistress, Mr. and Mrs. Eyre Pinckard of Del Monte, after her little adventure on the Sea of Matrimony. One moonlight night the romantic, though indiscreet, MUGGINS eloped with a dashing young fellow who was not her social equal—but definitely! (MUGGINS comes from a very aristocratic and distinguished Austrian family.) MUGGINS soon realized her faux pas and returned home where she spent her honeymoon in the Pinckard dog-house, sans her ne'er-do-well husband. However, all is forgiven now, and "MUGGSIE" is seen about once again on afternoon shopping tours with her mistress.

Letter from Mrs. Grant:

Jan. 7, 1942
Carmel.

The Editor, Carmel Pine Cone
Sir:

I am enclosing an account of the financial collections and disbursements of the Carmel Branch of the British War Relief Association for the year 1941, Jan. 1 to Jan. 1, 1942, together with a list of goods donated and made in our workrooms.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6, the members of the British War Relief workrooms from Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove, who have collaborated under one chairman, met at La Ribera Hotel. The an- [illegible] was read to them.

A discussion followed regarding our three groups merging with the local American Red Cross.

In view of the present war situation, the vote was unanimous with and for the American Red Cross.

We therefore will no longer operate as a separate unit. All the members of these three groups desire to express their deep and heartfelt thanks for the help and generosity extended to the British War Relief Association here on this Peninsula over the 26 months it has functioned. May I add my own personal thanks to one and all who have been so prodigal of their money, time, work and gifts. It has been an experience of quixotic, spontaneous generosity that I am more than grateful to have shared in. Thank you all.

Mrs. M. F. Grant.

American Sailors, Britain to Divide Bundles Benefits

Bundles for Britain has divided into virile halves and will hence-forward split its benefits between American sailors and Britain.

The new committee known as Bundles for Bluejackets, properly called American Navy and Merchant Marine, Inc., will have as its chairman Mrs. Ruth Grigg.

The other officers chosen at the organization meeting Jan. 2 at La Ribera will be Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, secretary; Mrs. Fraser Hancock, treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Pulliam, assistant-treasurer; Mrs. C. H. Rayne, knitting chairman; Mrs. A. G. Bagley, finance chairman; Mrs. F. W. Ten Winkel, publicity.

The two groups will join in keeping at headquarters, Dolores and Seventh, a jar of cookies for all soldiers. To maintain the supply of cookies, donations from villagers will be appreciated.

Bundles for Bluejackets and Britain also desire contributions of anything that can be sold. These objects should be taken to Dolores street headquarters while cash donations should be sent to Box 965. Bundles is also grateful for volunteer service.

The two groups will sponsor separate benefit card parties.

A new set of officers for Bundles for Britain was likewise named at Friday's meeting. Mrs. Burleigh Hall Murray again heads the group. Mrs. Ralph Skene will be treasurer; Mrs. Saxton Pope, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Alton Walker ,secretary; Mrs. C. H. Rayne, knitting chairman; Mrs. Murray, finance chairman; and Mrs. F. W. Ten Winkel ,publicity.

Others present for the reorganization were Mrs. Bernard Schulte, Mrs. Thomas Douglas, Mrs. B. B. Bowen, and Mrs. William Francis Halyard.

Prize Offered to Native Poets

An announcement was made today by the trustees of the estate of the late Senator James D. Phelan of one fellowship being offered for the year 1942-43, open to the writers of poetry and carrying a stipend of $1000. It is made available annually under the terms of a bequest to bring about a further development of native talent in California in the fields of literature and art.

Dr. C. Douglas Chretien of Berkeley, speaking for the trustees, called attention to the fact that applicants for the fellowship, both men and women, must be native born citizens of California, and must be between the ages of 20 and 30. Applications must be made on forms especially provided for that purpose, and may be obtained from the office of the James D. Phelan Award in Literature and Art, 507 Phelan Building, San Francisco. The competition closes Feb. 16, 1942.

MY STORY ABOUT DATES
By Donald Poulsen, Grade 5

On our trip we went to Palm Springs. A little way out of town we came to Riple's Date Garden where we saw dates growing and here is the story:

When the date tree is three days old they pollinate it so it will bear good fruit. If they do not pollinate it will be hard and won't have a seed. This fruit will not be good. If they make it so it will bear fruit, when it is five years old it will not give as good fruit as if it were eight years old. There is a pod and when this pod gets small, fiber-like branches grow and on these the dates grow.

P-T. A. Will See Dancing for Health Tuesday

How dancing can effect physical and even mental correction will be observed with live illustration by Carmel P-T. A. at its meeting Tuesday at 3 p. m. in Sunset school library.

Ballet dancing will be demonstrated by June Delight's pupils while dancing which improves hygiene will be presented by high school girls under the direction of Miss Leila Guilmert.

Mrs. Guy Koepp has arranged this novel program. The meeting will be presided over by Mrs. Frank Timmins, P-T. A. president, who takes occasion to announce that many of the mothers, who signed with the P-T. A. volunteering their services in caring for children in times of emergency, have enrolled in the Red Cross course in home nursing. The cards signed by the mothers have been filed with the Red Cross.

Jan. 20 the Monterey County Council of the P-T. A. will hold their monthly meeting in Carmel, with an all-day session in Sunset library. They will adjourn to Ella's Southern Kitchen for luncheon.

Dr. Howard Clark to Remain Chorus Head

Dr. Howard Clark was re-elected president of the Peninsula Male Chorus Tuesday evening and Frank Binney, vice president.

Carl Bensberg and Alfred Nielson will return to the board of directors while new members will be Paul Clemmensen, Rue Manhire, and Harold Selvey.

The chorus, which is directed by Jaffrey Harris, meets Tuesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in the cafeteria at Sunset school.

Twenty-four were present this week but the chorus is still looking for new members, tenors preferred.

Civilian Defense Is Well Under Control Here

Well-ordered preparation for Civilian Defense is progressing smoothly in Carmel with classes for specific groups of workers already started and a course for the general public planned for the near future.

A hundred men have enrolled in Police Officer Frank Hay's class for auxiliary senior air raid wardens, and fire wardens. This class will hold its third meeting tonight at Sunset School.

Because the Carmel Civilian Defense district is large and extremely varied—it extends a hundred miles down the Santa Lucia mountains and as far up the Carmel Valley as Jamesburg—other courses are being given on raid and fire fighting problems outside the village.

Forest Ranger Pennington, whose station is in the Santa Lucias, is conducting a course at Highlands Inn on the methods of fire fighting peculiar to the Santa Lucias. And Bob Norton is giving work at Highlands Inn similar to Officer Hay's, but designed for wardens and auxiliary police of the defense district who live outside Carmel. Both Officer Hay and Mr. Norton were especially trained for this instruction at the FBI School in San Jose.

Paul Whitman, chief warden for the Carmel district, has moved his headquarters to the Dolores street entrance of the Bank of Carmel.

He announced today that a pamphlet with full directions to be folowed in case of a war emergency was now in preparation and would soon be distributed to every householder in the Carmel district.

USO Extends Service

The USO announced that beginning the week of Monday, Jan. 5, the USO Club in Carmel, at Dolores and Eighth, will be open Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 2 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The war has brought increased mobility to the troops in the Carmel area and in an effort to be of service the YWCA has increased its program.

Sunday afternoon and evening the Carmel USO turned out to be a "making new friends" since most of the 150 men present were members of organizations recently transferred here from other parts of the country. Besides the usual coffee always on hand, ham sandwiches, potato salad, cakes and cookies were prepared and served by the Carmel younger generation who have adopted the USO. Everyone enjoyed the dance mixers and conga chain which were lead by Mrs. Hannah Diamond, USO staff member.

A special party is planned next Saturday by the girls of Carmel at the Carmel USO to acquaint the new troops in the area with its facilities.

CLASSES FOR WOMEN ON HOW TO HANDLE CROWDS

As a part of the national defense program, classes are being conducted at the Monterey Union High school on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock for the training of women to be of assistance in the entertaining and handling of any groups that may be congregated during an air raid alarm.

These classes are open to all ladies of any age group and the training which is given to them is sure to be of considerable value, not only to each one personally, but to the community, and services of this nature will be a necessary part of the defense program during the emergency.

These classes will be held downstairs in the new gymnasium building in the Monterey Union High School and will be under the instruction of trained WPA supervisors.

Car Burns, So Do Villagers

At 7:25 Monday morning, the fire siren shrieked out and again froze everyone in his tracks. However, long sighs were sent forth when the first four blasts were followed by a hair-laying two, and the village crawled out from beneath its community bed.

It all started when the automobile belonging to F. G. Gosling got its wires crossed and gave itself a hotfoot. The blaze was so small that it was easily extinguished by the ponce; the fire department didn't even have to leave the fire house.

As for the siren which blew anyway—well maybe the boys have decided to pass it off as a salute to 1942.

The Security of Good Lands

History of the great American fortunes shows that land was the basis of most of them. Good lands, wisely managed, offer not only proper increase in capital, but great security of the investment.

Carmel-by-the-Sea stood the test during our real depression. Land values were maintained, when properties elsewhere went into a commercial tailspin. So, buy land. But, good land. Study it and learn to manage it wisely. To be doubly safe when buying, find a broker who possesses ability, integrity, and whose appraisal advice is sound.

We offer this week a house centrally situated, with livingroom, kitchen, diningroom, two bedrooms, bath, garage, and some furniture. Price $5000.

By HERBERT HERON

It is the Leader of the Reich:
He stoppeth one of three.
By long grey guns and small mustache,
Now wherefore stopp'st thou me?

"The gates of Wrath are opened wide,
And all thy foes are in.
The ranks are met, the charges set:
May'st hear the battle din!"

The Fuehrer meeteth three war correspondents, and detaineth one.

The representative of the Press' pleadeth for a chance to witness the fray;

He holds him with a nervous hand.
"I needed oil," quoth he.
"I needed wheat, so we could eat
Eftsoons! . . . Alas! . . . Ah, me!

But Hitler hath other views, among them a plan to conquer the world. The Fuehrer detaileth the needs of the Nazis,

"The Caucasus was full of oil,
While our supplies were lean,
And the rich Ukraine was full of grain—
But the Russians stood between."

And telleth where such necessaries might be obtained, after the destruction of the owners.

He holds the correspondent close;
He will not let him free—
While on Ordzhonikidzegrad
A frightful bomb drops he.

The reporter yearneth for the battle-music, but is constrained to listen to Hitler's vocalizing.

"My plan is fine: we cross the line
To gather in the swag.
Beyond the rivers, through the towns—
It seemeth in the bag.

The Fuehrer singeth of the swift early successes of his armies.

"But by-and-by we find ourselves
Regretting that we came;
Yet still we bomb, and still we burn,
And still we shift the blame."

The situation changeth; but the Leader keepeth a small stiff upper lip and giveth out other reports.

High School News

Were you to traipse up to "ye ole school" next Thursday, you would see every one of our 279 students pouring into the lunch court (if it's not raining) to nominate their choices for student body executives. The choices of the legislature for these offices are: president, Bill Huggins, Eade Jordan and Howie Levinson; for vice-president, Lila Whitaker; secretary, Pat Shepard and June Petty.

Of course you know Bill Huggins—he's the present president and a very good one at that. Howie is a fine fellow and would be well suited for the job—is also advertising manager of the yearbook, proving he is capable of bearing up under the worries of Carmel Hi. Eade Jordan is now president of the Senior class, thus you can see he is used to the job.

Lila Whitaker was president of Sunset School in 1939 and is now an honor student in her junior year of high school. Of course she won't be the only one running for this office because there will be nominations from the floor at Thurday's meeting.

June Petty is a member of the notorious "Leaders Club" and has done great work in the Red Cross. Pat Shepard is our sweet-voiced songstress, and has a fine handwriting.

Monday the primary election will raise its pretty head and the finals will shake the hearts of the candidates Thursday.

DO WE WANT CARMEL TO BECOME A GHOST TOWN?

The answer to the above question is decidedly NO! The reaction to such a thought is one of resentment.

"Why," we ask, "should Carmel become a ghost town?" We all know that local business has been hard hit. We understand the reason. "But", we say confidently, 'it is only a temporary phase!"

That may be so. And yet the lack of business, the lack of tourists in this village may not be any temporary phase. It may be the start of a long and devastating process.

We're not going to conquer it by wishful thinking nor by false optimism. There is only one thing we can do about it, and that is help each other to survive.

Tourists aren't going to return here in any appreciable number if it is reported that Carmel is deader than a hole in the wall. We've got to keep it alive.

Maybe that hasn't occurred to us—that it is our civic obligation to fill in the slack. If our local businesses, which depended a great deal on tourists, are suffering at this moment, it is up to us to relieve them as much as possible so that they will still be here, when times are better.

Carmel has always been a community made up of highly individualistic citizens. There have been little cliques, little groups of men and women who have wanted this or that and have squabbled to achieve their ends or to prevent others from achieving theirs. That is why we have not had more civic improvement and that which we have had has been reached with difficulty.

Carmel, with all its repose and beauty and cultural aspects, has been described at times as a hybrid town—a town in which seriously-minded people do not pull together, only wish to be let alone, where business is carried on indifferently, and philosophers, dreamers, dipsomanicas and screwballs enjoy the opportunity of living as they wish. We could smile about this during peacetime, knowing that it would bring some curious visitors here to spend their money; but as a tourist lure it won't work now.

We're no different from any other small Coast town now which has to face the grim reality of our country at war, and if our local businesses are to continue to function, our own citizens must take the attitude that they'll fill in where tourist trade drops off.

We Have to "Take In Each Other's Washing"

That attitude of everyone cooperating must extend beyond defense work and other important and necessary activity relating to the War Emergency. People in business in Carmel must feel at least that our citizens as a whole stand behind them and intend that they should be able to weather the storms this winter, and will as much as possible help them to do so by patronizing them to the fullest extent.

Citizens of Carmel who want to keep this place alive are urged to buy their food here, their clothing, their various necessities and luxuries, to frequent our restaurants and tea rooms, to encourage their friends outside to come here and do the same.

Citizens are urged to spend as much as they can here, in as many ways as they can, so that money can go on changing hands in this town and business can be carried on without serious curtailment.

This spirit, and this alone, will bring conditions back to a point where local merchants and business and professional people won't be left stranded. It will work better for Carmel than all the publicity, charged with optimism, which can be devised. It will give outsiders the impression that life is proceeding normally here and their interest in us will be automatically revived.

SAN FRANCISCO PROCEEDING NORMALLY

Recently the San Francisco News counteracted some adverse publicity in this way:

"The San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau is very mad at Miss Lillian Gish, formerly an actress, for telling a Chicago interviewer that there was "panic" on this coast.

"The Chicago Tribune, a newspaper, carried the interview on December 23. It quoted Miss Gish as saying she was in Beverly Hills when war broke out, and that people there were panicky.

"Miss Gish was a prominent speaker for the America First Committee in the days before the war. Only July 1 she appeared here at a meeting with Charles Lindbergh, a flyer, Senator Clark of Idaho, and Miss Kathleen Norris, novelist. Miss Gish warned that if America entered the war, we might face civil war in our own country.

"Walter G. Swanson, manager of the local tourist bureau, has written Miss Gish a letter answering her interview. Here it is:

"You must have found panicky people in California, Lillian Gish, as set forth in your interview for the Chicago Tribune of December 23. We haven't. However, in seven million people there undoubtedly must be some panicky ones. There is no sign of panic in San Francisco. Business is better than usual in many instances. One department store announces a 20 per cent increase in business the day after the declaration of war.

"Six thousand people enjoyed Paul Robeson and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra last week. Night clubs and theaters are going to capacity. Among the musical artists appearing in San Francisco within the next month are John Charles Thomas, Alexander Brailowsky and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo—all with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

"The Christmas holidays are being celebrated with the usual round of parties and festivities in gay, hospitable San Francisco. Many visitors are in the city for the holidays, including a number from the Middle West.

"Many delegates and visitors for the joint convention of the American Association of Economic Entomologists and the Entomological Society of America have arrived to enjoy the Christmas vacation here. The convention opens on the 29th and will continue through January 1.

All other convention plans are going full speed ahead. Requests for hotel reservations are being received daily for the big American Association of School Administrators' convention here in February. . . . All this with the "blessing" of the military authorities here.

"Yes, Lillian Gish, in seven million people, there are, no doubt, some 'jittery' ones. There are some who are always 'up in the air' about something, but some of these must have been caught up in the high spirit of a united people, because, frankly, we haven't found any people here panicky about the war situation."

If San Francisco feels the way it does about the war situation, we can, too. We expect to stay in Carmel, live and carry on our business as usual, do our part and make the best of any circumstances that arise.

In Carmel, as in all West Coast towns, we have two main duties to perform. First, a duty to our Country. Then a duty to ourselves as free citizens. We comprise the first line of moral defense on these shores, and if we fail ourselves we fail the whole country.

MORE VOLUNTEER OBSERVERS WANTED

More people in this community are urged to join the civilian Air Raid Warning Service, which is performing a necessary and vitally important duty on this coast.

These volunteer observers sit or stand or walk around in their strategic positions, watching the heavens, scanning the sea and land, listening to every sound—anticipating the one unfamiliar sound that will send them immediately to their sources of communication.

They may remain for days without spotting anything which spells danger. Yet one of them, or a group of them, may at one time put in a report, without knowing its significance, that will save hundreds, perhaps thousands of lives.

Any volunteer in this service is occupying a position in civilian defense that is as important actually as that of fire or police warden, and his or her work materially reduces the chances of the latter having to meet unexpected emergencies.

It is a 24-hour-a-day service protecting this coast, a sentry duty that is of utmost value to both the civilian population and the military.

The Pine Cone suggests that if anyone here, not already engaged in Civilian Defense work, who can spare two or three hours several times a week, night or day, come into this office and inquire about it.

ATTENTION CARMEL INVENTORS!

For all inventors, including even the amateur tinkerer, it promises to be a bonanza year. Today their ideas, no matter how seemingly improbable, are assured full consideration in Washington, D. C., from the National Inventors' Council established by the Department of Justice.

The specific purpose of that council, staffed by industrial experts, scientists and military officials, is to provide a central intake for inventive notions, ideas and hunches.

War has set a premium on new methods and weapons of combat. Shortage of certain vital raw materials have given front-ranking importance to the development of new synthetics.

POETRY

JANUARY NIGHT

On sky, crisp as a waxen plum,
The moon is cast in chromium.

Chimney smoke looms brittle as
A feather spun of lilac glass.

Footprints frozen on a walk
Are camouflaged with powdered chalk.

There is no wind. Screws of ice
Clamp shadows in a figid vice.

Dazzling ferns and cobweb skeins
Slowly pattern window-panes.

A fountain is a jade gargoyle;
Breath, a strand of silver foil.

So cold, the night, the lichened back
Of a rock splits with a crack.

So still, a comet swishing down,
Wakes a sleeper in a town.

—Ethel Romig Fuller.

THE HEART MUST NOT DENY

The heart must not deny the coming summer,
Though it be burdened with a winter's weight,
Though grief may stifle it as snow smothers
The faded fields, the last harsh bitter grass;
As frost will leave the joyous river voiceless.

For June will come as surely as the buds
Break through the bony barren branches, or
The leaf will finally unfurl from out
The slender vine; and grass will greenly bend
And blow again across the wintered waste
Of meadows, mute and blanched with loneliness.

The heart must not deny the coming summer.
For though its every promise lie restrained
Within the unresisting bosom of
The earth, though it be stripped to one last root,
One frail and fruitless tendril, it shall grow
Again, and startle with its sudden bloom.

But hope need never leave the human heart.
For roots grow safely and serenly though
The stalks be bent, the flower's color lost.
The heart must not deny the coming summer.

—R. Eva Black.

A SWING IN THE SNOW

A little swing
One summer old
Half-hid in snow,
Alone and cold,

A little swing
That knew the joy
Of holding safe
A precious boy,

Half-hid in snow,
That little swing
Still hoping for Returning Spring . . .

Bible selections will include the following passages from John 21: 9, 13, 14: . . . As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread. . . . Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Through all the disciples experienced, they became more spiritual and understood better what the Master had taught. His resurrection was also their resurrection. It helped them to raise themselves and others from spiritual dullness and blind belief in God into the perception of infinite possibilities," (p. 34).

Lorita Vallely Speaks at Del Monte Jan. 13

Lorita Baker Vallely, noted commentator and lecturer on world affairs and current literature, who speaks over 30 times a month at Women's Clubs in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, and San Francisco is to be at Hotel Del Monte for her first lecture of the year 1942 at 3:15 p. m. Jan. 13. Mrs. Vallely's lectures are every second Tuesday from October to May, seven lectures in all.

Mrs. Vallely since last November has, according to her usual yearly procedure, been in New York and Washington, D. C. She was there when war was launched by way of Pearl Harbor and in consequence brings first-hand information as to the attitude of Navy, Army and congress in facing the tense situation when she speaks to audiences from one end of California to the other during the month of January.

Driving across country from the East to the West coast, Mrs. Vallely has a heartening picture of the attitude of the American people in facing the immediacy of war.

In a brief survey of the grand strategy of the world's armed camps, she will bring out certain basic points to be watched.

Vital trends in books, as gleaned from interviews with publishers, as well as latest impressions of a more brilliant theatrical season than she has found for some years in the East, are highlights of her talk. In addition to a list of outstanding books to be discussed, Mrs. Vallely will review two plays of contrasting spirit, "The Wookey" and "Blythe Spirit."

All those who have not already got season tickets to Lorita Baker Vallely's interesting series of talks may purchase a book of tickets for her five remaining lectures to be given at Hotel Del Monte, or single tickets may be had either the day of the lecture or by calling Carmel 618 or 1222 Pine Inn.

"France Under the Nazis" at Forum Tuesday

The story of France under Nazi domination will be told by Miss Loretta Ellen Brady for the Carmel Forum at Sunset Auditorium on the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 8 o'clock.

Miss Brady has lived in France for a number of years and has traveled around the world twice, and studied at Oxford, the Sorbonne, Grenoble and Tours. She also attended the schools at Luxembourg, at the Louvre, and at Shanghai.

Miss Brady is a writer of note, as well as a lecturer. She writes: "What happens in France today will happen in the world tomorrow. What France says today, the world will say tomorrow. What France does today, the world will do tomorrow." An old adage, that still holds force. Even from the depths of her humiliation, France still strains to hold aloft her beacon light of civilization. Her call to the world is not for aid, not for sympathy—in the Nazi created limbo that is all Europe, no human aid, no succor, nor earthly relief can avail—that solid wall of Nazi men and women, standing shoulder to shoulder, smiling their way through the misery and subjugation is the Nazi-world-conquest plan:

"The call of France sounds in warning to the civilized world: 'Peoples still free hear ye! Hear ye! Learn your lessons of the disaster of France. Peoples still free, hear ye! Take heed of my disaster! Preserve your liberty!

Miss Brady's home in June 1940 was in the Place des Vosges in Paris. She saw the Nazis march in and take over Paris, and lived under the Nazi-dominated city for some weeks. She will tell the story from the viewpoint of the resident. Admission is free.

This is not the time, some of you will say, to invest in the luxury of buying lovely old silver or furniture—such a thing would be unpatriotic.

As a matter of fact this is just the time to do so if you can consider such an investment at any time.

Why? you ask. The answer is this: England is selling everything marketable to get "dollars" for defense. She is sending her treasures here at ridiculous prices so that she may get "cash." On the other hand, dealers here who have invested in Britain, such as Mrs. Wick Parson's Shop on Lincoln street, want to "give" to our defense. So it's all a big circle.

Of all stocks to be purchased in Carmel, the lovely and very reasonably priced treasures in this shop represent the beauty of the past and the urgency of the present, as does the stock of no other shop.

But what an opportunity for you, the buyer! You will help England and Uncle Sam while saving some lovely object from obscurity.

WAR COMES TO CARMEL

News and Views of Our Military Forces

Inspection Arms

By M. RANDOLPH

With its magnificent inconsistency the weather has now transformed itself to crystal clear and North-pole cold. The ocean is as much like a mirror as it can be and the wind has died down to a mere icy caress, sometimes expiring altogether. The stillness is so in contrast to the customary roar of the elements that you feel that you are now living in a vacuum. . . . Of course, now that the mercury drops down to a petrifying 36 at night, the camp has run out of firewood and, we suspect, out of funds with which to purchase any. Personally I have been wearing all the underwear I possess, which equals three pair of heavy wool and one pair of cotton. My usual lankiness has expanded to a handsome 200 lbs. appearance. But I'm not warm!

Yes, we are still here on this lonely hinterland of California's Arctic coast. But now people have discovered our presence and daily a trickle of kibitzers drive from 15 to 20 miles to look at us with expressions of patronizing compassion. The women pass out bars of candy as if they were endowing us with ingots of gold—the men pass out two-for-a-nickels as if they were Corona-Coronas. In consequence there is a good deal of indigestion and the camp as a whole is enveloped in nauseating fumes of proletarian cheroots. . . . God bless the civilians! (Evidently He has by keeping them out of uniform).

None-the-less these good people break up the monotony. They ask a lot of silly questions and we usually managed to give seriously equally silly answers. Most of the males are bigoted enough to tell us how they enjoyed the last war. Instead of laughing hysterically, we puff their horrible cigars and say we rather enjoy this one. Then they gaze aggressively over the Pacific as if the Japanese were just below the horizon and, patting us on the back say: "Give 'em hell, boys!"

* * *

One group of civilians had a bright idea during Christmas week and rented a nearby shack where they gave us a party. They had the foresight to collect a group of quite passable young girls upon which we hurled all the concentrated sex appeal we could master under the circumstances. The soldiers were hysterically collecting addresses and worthless promises; myself I ate cake—lots of cake.

* * *

Just to show that we mean business, we actually had a battle the other day. Some poor fisherman approached to close to shore. Before he was closer than 3000 yards the machine guns started to bark. But he ployed on with complete contempt for our marksmanship. We became increasingly annoyed. Finally we made the spray fly all around him as thousands of rounds boiled about his craft. Then, and only then did he, with true nautical dignity and serenly sail back towards the horizon. . . . Result: one seagull shot down in flames, one gunner's finger caught in recoil mechanism, 200 hot biscuits collapsed in field kitchen. (War is hell!)

Well, that's about all. The only other military secret for today is that my last pair of pants have slit down the most important seam, exposing outer layer of bleak woolen underwear. The esthetically-minded would object to this, but I don't give a d——. So long!

ONE THING THE ARMY DOESN'T CENSOR IS FASHION NEWS
Lieut. John Turner of the U. S. Army Air Corps thinks women's fashions still have an important place in the national set-up. (He is engaged to a fashion model, Jane Garlow, with whom he is seen above just before he hopped off recently for the East.) "We want our girls to keep on looking pretty during this war," says Lt. Turner.

HOW EVERYONE CAN HELP

In connection with the sale of Defense Bonds, it is important to emphasize the fact that Bonds will not be put out in issues, as they were during the last war, and that there will be no concerted high-pressure drives to put subscriptions over the top. There will be no house-to-house campaign; there will be no humiliating of those who do not purchase Bonds. This campaign is a permanent one, there will be no separate issues.

Bonds must be sold every day, every week, and every month during the entire period of the war.

People must budget themselves to make regular purchases. Plan now to set aside a certain amount of money just as you may budget yourself for food, for clothing, or any of the other necessities. If the amount of money so budgeted is not sufficient to buy a Bond each month, buy stamps, keep them in the album provided for them and then when you have enough purchase a Bond.

Remember that the money you are so investing will be available to you at a time when it is very probable you will need money more than you do now!

The sum of $37.50 invested today in a Bond will return you $50 in ten years.

But it is a savings plan which, at the same time, is financing the fight for the protection of everything in your life that you hold of value.

General Purposes of Bond Sales

Defense Bonds are the obligation of the United States of America, ahead of everything else, and, of course, the soundest investment in the country—and this means in the world.

The Bonds are first and foremost to finance the war for the preservation of our way of life and everything that we hold dear.

In the second place, it is the farsighted plan of the government to induce people now to save a portion of their income for the reconstruction period following these years when the going may be tough; and, in the third place, it is thought that by inducing people to invest in a saving plan at this time that there will be less money available for the purchase of commodities that are available only in limited quantities and, because of this fact, it will be easier to control prices.

Instalment Plan

Savings stamps make it possible to buy bonds on the instalment plan. You can buy these stamps in denominations as low as ten cents. Purchase stamps on every occasion that you can. Paste them in the albums provided for the purpose and when you have eighteen dollars and seventy-five cents worth of stamps, turn them in for a Bond. That Bond means that you will receive twenty-five dollars ten years from date. Of course if you have to have your money earlier than that it will be possible for you to get it—but you will lose some of the interest.

Make the purchase of stamps and of Bonds a matter of regular procedure.

No drives will be made, this is something that everybody must do for himself and, while it is a patriotic duty, it is incidentally, the soundest kind of practice from a selfish standpoint no matter what your circumstances may be!

—S. F. B. MORSE.

"THANK YOU—from all of us"

"Just before Christmas, we told you that we would appreciate your lending us a hand over the Holiday Season by not sending greetings by Long Distance.

"We asked this in order to help keep the lines available for calls important to defense.

"In spite of all our extra operators could do, there were many more calls than could be handled without delay. We are exceedingly sorry for the delay, but grateful for the friendly cooperation you gave us all through these busy days. Thank you. It really helped a lot.

"We assure you that we will do our level best, under existing conditions, to render you the finest service possible during the coming year."

Carmel Buys Bonds

Carmel must have had friends at Pearl Harbor for during the month of December, they outdid themselves in the momentous job of bond and stamp buying.

Results of the Christmas month show that $13,145.75 in Defense Bonds flowed out of the post office, while Defense Stamps sales amounted to $1550 in good American money.

Postal receipts also took a jump. At the end of 1941, sum totals revealed that over $56,746 was taken in by the post office, an increase of 17.2 per cent over 1940 receipts.

Audubon Society to Meet in P. G. Museum

The Audubon Society will meet on Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Pacific Grove Museum, to view a film "The Heritage We Guard", presented by the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The pictures will deal with wild life, and the cover which protects its nest will be shown by A. C. Hawbecker of the Soil Conservation Service.

A Rime of a Cold Retreat

The warrespondent stays in camp;
He hath no other choice.
He must appear to like to hear
The Fuehrer's rasping voice.

The journalist is spell-bound by the eye of a sentry, and listeneth willy-nilly to the Fuehrer's tale.

"The Russian winter comes, with ice
But nothing much to sing;
And Moscow's fall will be delayed
Till later in the spring.

It is the season of the storm-blast, and the battle-front becometh unfit for the gentle Nazis.

"Their lines are long, and deep and strong;
They have the tanks and planes;
While we retreat, with frozen feet,
Relinquishing our gains.

The Fuehrer complaineth of the unforeseen strength of the enemy and the painful march backwards.

"The wind is shrieking through the snow;
The sleet is all around;
Our uniforms are very thin,
And no warm beds are found.

It seemeth to be a land of extreme temperatures, and many of the living-rooms lack floor furnaces.

"My generals have not done the work
I beautifully planned.
For them, the shelf; and I myself
Assume the chief command."

The field marshals are not so hot in Russia, and a new running back goes in.

The correspondent beats his breast.
"The sound of guns I hear!
Ah, let me go!" he cries; but no—
They keep him in the rear.

The reporter smelleth the battle from afar, but is forced to be content with the smell.

The warrespondent waits behind,
Knowing the public's loss;
But listens to the Fuehrer's speech
And earns the Iron Cross.

He maketh the best of a bad matter.

"A million of my faithful men
Or dead or dying lie;
And a million billion marks are spent,
Alas!—and so am I!

The Fuehrer mourneth the loss of regiments which might be alive and well but for the obstinacy of the Russians. He addeth that war is costly and also a great nervous strain.

"The foe is here, the foe is there,
And still their numbers swell.
I did not think my earth could be
So like to Satan's hell."

The enemy seemeth to be on all sides, and the situation requireth constant attention.

"What ails thee, Fuehrer? Thou hast won
From Norway down to Greece . . .
Why so dismayed?" "I am afraid
I've killed the Dove of Peace!"

The newspaper man asketh after the health of the Fuehrer, and is told the cause of his distress.

A fighter-plane appears in sight:
Out of the fog comes he;
And, hid in rain, a submarine
Goes down into the sea;

Thunder-birds and hell-divers have replaced the Dove.

And the heavy bombers bill and coo—
But no sweet Dove at all;
Nor any day, for lies or pay,
Comes to the Fuehrer's call.

The pigeon-house is empty, and the wheat is scattered in vain.

"Oh, I have made a sad mistake;
A pain is in my head.
Just when I needed him the most,
The Bird of Peace is dead."

By common consent Hitler is not awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

The correspondent's eye is wet;
His feet are cold and sore.
The Leader of the German Reich
Turns from the battle's roar.

The gentleman of the Press is affected by the Fuehrer's sorrow. Also his feet hurt him. The Commander-in-Chief retireth from the appalling noise of the artillery.

He moves like one that hath been stunned,
Like one that barks his shin—
A sadder and a wiser man
Returning to Berlin.

An agony constraineth him to travel—eastward from the west and westward from the east. And he won't kill any more birds.

Kuster Now Manages His Old Rival, the Carmel Theater

Edward Kuster, who is busy doing private coaching in dramatics, and as director of the drama workshop course in Carmel's Adult School, added to his list Jan. 2 another title, that of manager of the Carmel Theater.

Former manager, Tommi Phillips, son of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Phillips, was called by the Navy.

Kuster says he was planning to return to Los Angeles to take up his law practice again, when he decided to accept the offer made by Mark Keller, the theater circuit manager. All the older Carmelites remember Kuster's Golden Bough theater which was erected in 1921 and which was ravaged by fire in 1935. Familiar to all villagers is his Playhouse which formerly operated under the name of Filmarte and which although closed through the winter, in the summer season presents outstanding foreign and domestic films.

Pick Up Your Knife and Fork

Here are some wartime recipes from World War 1, kindly lent by Mrs. Bernice Fraser.

They were collected by Mary Harris Mixon who, a correspondent in the last war, made her home in Carmel until her death not long ago.

The recipes, you will note, are economical, good, and, above all, wholesome. The Pine Cone has quite a collection of them which Pick Up Your Knife and Fork will run in serial form so that today's dishes are only a foretaste of the menu to come.

RICE PROVENCAL

Brown rice, tomatoes, onions, cheese, ripe olives, walnuts.

Put all together and bake 1 hr. It should not run.

This recipe was gathered from one who ate it in Bayonne, France.

ONION SOUP

Two large onions sliced and sauted in butter. Add 1 qt. bouillon, salt and pepper, and let simmer 30-40 mins.

Place a layer of slices of toasted bread in a casserole, cover with cheese and sprinkle with cream (evaporated milk undiluted.) Repeat until casserole is half full.

Pour bouillon over the bread and bake 20 mins. in a moderate oven (375 degrees).

Put under broiler to brown.

N. B.—This is a famous soup at the renowned Escargot near Les Halles, Paris, where early morning society people often stop to eat before going to bed.

Mrs. Bassett Writes of Carmel Charms

our dislike of street lights and house numbers, and the whimsical names we have given our houses. Driftwood, White Caps, Surf Echoes, Green Breakers and Crow's Nest are some which she chose for comment.

Mrs. Bassett bemoans the fact that her final paragraph was omitted, apparently for lack of space. It was this:

"Down on the rocky point south of Carmel facing the open sea crouches a low stone house guarded by a sturdy tower. There is no decorative sign to announce that this is the home of the man who, in the eyes of the literary world, now sheds the most glory on Carmel. But if you don't drive too fast you may read in small leatherbeaten letters on the mail box at the gate—'R. Jeffers—Tor House'."

Guy Koepp With Northrup Firm

Guy Koepp, well known Carmel architect, and man responsible for many outstanding village homes, has been called for defense work, and is now busily engaged in business at the Northrup Aircraft Corporation.

Mrs. Koepp and the Koepp children, Laura Lee, Flora Lee, Donald and Frances, are still in Carmel.

Madcap Comedy at Carmel Theater

Starting tonight Carmel Theater offers a two-day double-feature program, "Three Girls About Town" and "Parson of Panamint." The first is a madcap comedy starring Joan Blondell, John Howard and Binnie Barnes, the second a rousing western story starring Charles Ruggles.

Sunday afternoon will usher in one of the most remarkable films Hollywood has turned out in years, the sensational "Citizen Kane", starring Orson Wells and his noted Mercury Players. The leading woman, Dorothy Comingore, is a Los Angeles girl whose principal acting experience prior to her selection for this coveted role was gained in the non-professional theaters of Taos and Carmel. Wells' performance is rated as magnificent and Miss Comingore's hardly less so.

"Citizen Kane" will play three days only, finishing next Tuesday night. The next program, opening Wednesday, Jan. 14, will be a two-day double bill, "All That Money Can Buy", the drama of Daniel Webster, with Edward Arnold and Ann Shirley, and "Three Sons o' Guns", a farce-comedy with Wayne Morris, Irene Rich and Tom Brown.

Matinees during the winter season on Saturday and Sunday only.

Special U. S. Service Courses Offered by Salinas Jaysee

Preparation for positions in the field of national defense will be featured in the new courses given during the spring semester at the Salinas Junior College. The Federal Government is calling for man power to fill important positions of leadership in the armed forces, in the vital industries and in civilian defense. These positions need basic training which is offered at the junior college.

Special courses leading to commissions in flying for the army, navy, and marine corps will be offered. Engineering and meteorology officers are required to have at least a junior college education. Junior engineers will be given basic training necessary for them to prepare for advanced rating in civil service. Pre-nursing courses are emphasized for young women who wish to become nurses. The commercial fields in secretarial and accounting positions are demanding more junior college trained men and women.

The spring semester will begin Monday, Feb. 2. Richard J. Werner, president of the Salinas Junior College, will be at the Monterey High School on Friday, Jan. 9, from 3:00-5:00 p. m. and from 7:00-9:00 p. m. to interview high school graduates and other young men and women over 18 years of age who are interested in training for these positions or other equally necessary positions.

The Salinas Junior College is a public junior college and no charge is made for education, transportation, or placement in these positions. If you are interested in getting further information, call the Monterey High School.

Carmel's Bill Adams Winters in Alaska

The Pine Cone has just received a letter from Bill Adams of Carmel, alias "Sourdough Bill", an officer in Alaska. He writes:

"This is turning out to be a very interesting Christmas season for me. At least, it's different. As they say back in New England and the Midwest, and such out-of-the-way places, this is a 'white Christmas' in Alaska. And I must confess I like it. It's not so cold as to be uncomfortable, and the Army dresses warmly, so let it come. The snow-covered hills and mountains and the icicles hanging from the eaves of the buildings, all go in to make a beautiful picture. One of the pursers off a ship coming in here for the first time last week (he had been running down to the tropics) shouted, 'Golly, look at this country — all covered with Christmas tree ornaments', and that's just what it is, too.

"Now don't go getting the idea that all we have to do up here is sit by a warm stove and look at the beautiful scenery through a barracks window. No, sire—we have a job—a mighty big job,—and an important one. We're proud that this job has been handed to us, that we are lucky enough to have been chosen to take a part in the defense of this good old U. S. A.

"Give my best to everybody—and a very Merry Christmas to all of you."
